

Sacred Grounds™ WORKSHOP

How to Green Your Faith Community's Landscape

*Providing a home for birds and butterflies
Answering the call to care for creation*

Join us to learn how diverse faiths share the call to creation care and how you can beautify your faith community's grounds while improving your environmental stewardship using native plants.

- Build a natural community that creates habitat for birds and butterflies, welcomes pollinators, reduces water pollution from runoff and lessens your contributions to and impacts from climate change.
- Learn about National Wildlife Federation's innovative Sacred Grounds™ program that recognizes and certifies faith communities that have made their grounds friendly to wildlife.
- Meet a local green team of organizations and agencies who can provide advice and resources to start building your native plant community!

Saturday, July 15th, 2017, 9:30am - 12:30pm

at University Church, 4747 Hill Avenue Toledo, Ohio
